Teenage pit parties becoming a problem

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The regular occurrence of weekend "pit parties" in Haliburton County is concerning the police, parents and property owners.

The parties, held in fields or quarries, sometimes attract several hundred teenagers and involve drinking, narcotics, and have even resulted in violence.

"We've had sexual assaults, assaults, several kids admitted to the hospital with alcohol problems, dangerous driving and car accidents," says Minden OPP Constable Mike Maybee. "If that's your definition of a problem, then yes it's a problem."

While he has no doubt that such parties, in varying degrees of size, are happening every weekend, Maybee says the police do not get always get called.

"In some cases we don't know about them, but we hear about the results afterward, in cases of an accident or assault," he says. The problem with linking accidents where alcohol is involved to pit parties, is that the young people rarely admit where they've been.

In cases where police are notified, Maybee says it is usually by a neighbour bothered by the noise or a parent concerned for the safety of a child they suspect is attending the party.

Once they are notified, Maybee says the officers first priority is making sure the situation is under control and everyone gets home safely.

"It's impossible to arrest 200 kids," he says. "When we show up they usually head for the hills."

When a complaint about a pit party is received, Maybee says the police will try to contact the property owner and suggest the party be shut down.

Many times the owner is not aware of the festivities taking place on his property.

Jail term sought for sex offender

by Susan Grober

A 40-year-old man who sexually assaulted his step-daughter over a five-year period, from the time she was 11, should serve a sentence of two years in a penitentiary, suggested Crown Attorney Rick Bagg at a trial last Wednesday.

The man pleaded guilty before Judge George Inrig in Lindsay Provincial Court to two charges of sexual assault, for incidents occurring in Stanhope Township in 1987 and 1988, and to three charges of sexual exploitation in 1989 and 1990, in both Stanhope and Metropolitan Toronto.

Bagg said that, as the girl's step-father, the man took advantage of his position of trust, and would normally be sentenced to three to five years.

However, by handing down only a two-year sentence, a longer probation term of three years can be imposed, and this would provide the community with "more protection," said Bagg.

Court heard that the man had been living common-law with the girl's mother, and began sexually assaulting the girl in 1986.

The sexual assaults continued until January of this year and included incidents at the couple's Hall's Lake cottage and Scarborough home.

In 1990, the girl's mother and step-father split up, and the man remained living in Toronto with the girl. The assaults continued until January 1, 1991.

After an altercation with the man on January 4, the girl returned to her mother, and the pair reported the incidents at the Minden OPP detachment.

The girl didn't tell anyone about the incidents before because she was confused, said Bagg, and felt she couldn't tell anyone because she wouldn't be believed. She "felt she was being forced into sexual relations with (the accused)," he said.

Bagg said the man showed remorse by pleading guilty, and not further causing the girl anguish by having her testify.

Along with the two-year jail term and three-year probation, Bagg asked Judge Inrig that the accused be ordered to have no contact with the victim, either directly or indirectly; take sexual counselling and counselling for alcohol abuse; and not be with any child under the age of 16, unless there is an adult over the age of 21 present.

"I think for protection of the public, that should be the term," he said.

The man's defence lawyer agreed to the sentence, but argued against the last restriction, because the man has a young daughter.

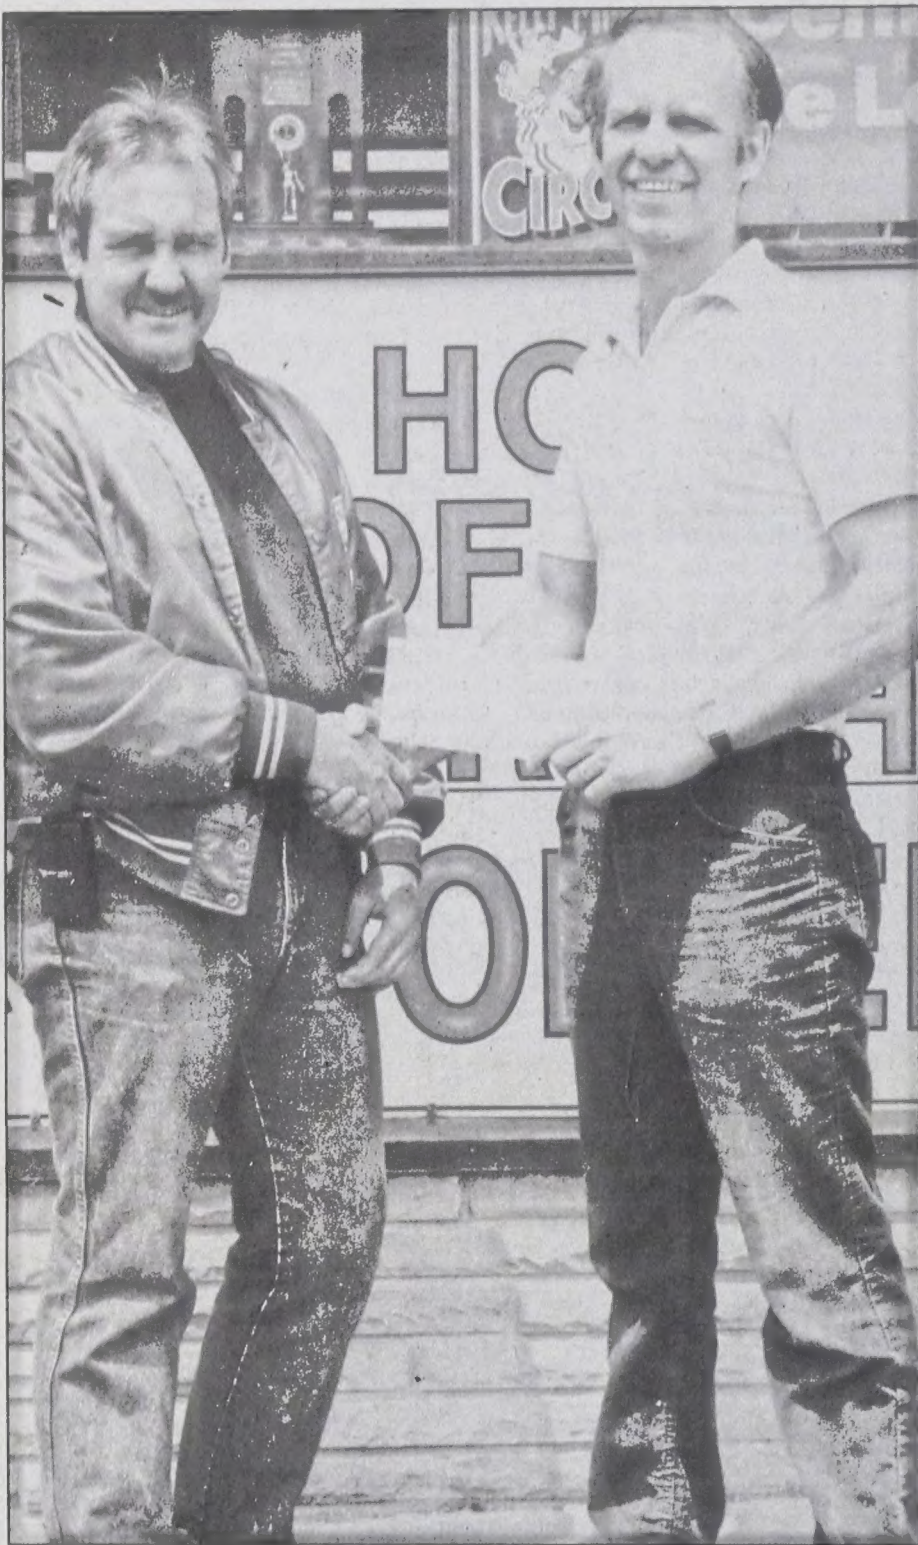

Judge Inrig, who ordered a publication ban of any information which would identify the complainant, held off sentencing until Monday, June 24.

Jaws of Life fund almost complete

Minden fire department's Jaws for Life campaign has almost reached its successful conclusion. Last week Doug Brown of Westside Jug City, right, presented Minden Deputy-Cheif Bill Hogg with a cheque for $1,000. On Saturday night, the fire fighters held a dance at the Minden Community Centre to raise money for the life-saving extrication equipment and Chief Don Booth said he expected the department to reach its goal of $20,000 before too long. Booth said he was amazed at how quickly the community has been able to raise the money for the fund. The Jaws should be in service by this weekend.

YOU CAN HELP!

The Minden Fire Department is currently raising funds to purchase JAWS FOR LIFE rescue and extrication equipment. The fund raising target is $20,000. Tax deductible receipts for your donation will be available through the municipality.

Reform movement is gaining support

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Reform Party is continuing to increase its support in the riding of Victoria-Haliburton.

Last Wednesday, the local riding association held an information night in Minden and more than 50 people turned out to hear the Reform Party's position on the problems facing Canada.

"We're not here to twist your arm, we want to let you make up your own mind," said Barry Devolin, a resident of Haliburton Village and president of the riding association. "But the fact that you are here tonight, two years before the next election, means you are not satisfied with the present situation."

The Reform Party's platform addresses three broad areas, parliamentary reform, economic reform and constitutional reform.

In terms of the Canadian economy, Devolin said, "we are either at a crisis, or fast approaching one."

Canada's $400 billion debt, which is growing by about $30 billion each year, must either be addressed, or it will cripple the economy, he said.

The first priority in dealing with the economy must be a balanced budget to curtail the growth of the debt, he said. "To do that we have to either tax more or spend less." As far as taxes are concerned, Devolin said Canadians are getting to the saturation point. "Locally we're getting to the point where we have a tax revolt underfoot" he said. At the federal level, Devolin said the growth of the Reform Party is the largest symbol of Canadians' growing frustration with the tax system.

In an effort to cut spending, Devolin said the Reform Party would start at the top, with decreases in the salaries paid to members of parliament.

Deborah Gray, the lone Reform MP currently sitting in the House of Commons, has taken a voluntary pay cut and Devolin said all Reform Party candidates elected in the next election will do likewise.

"It's a symbolic gesture," he said. "It won't mean much in terms of overall government spending, but MPs can't tell us to tighten our belts and vote themselves pay raises."

The Reform Party would also like to cut back on the size of the government. Devolin said there are eight layers of federal bureaucracy between the deputy-minister and the civil servant who delivers a federal service.

Devolin refuted claims that a Reform government would slash delivery of social (more on page 4) the property owner thought a few kids were camping on his land. He didn't know the size or the magnitude of the gathering."

Whether or not they know about the parties, Maybee says property owners can be held liable if someone is injured.

He says he knows of several cases in other parts of the province where property owners have been successfully sued as the result of people being injured on their land, even though the injured person was illegally trespassing at the time of the accident.

With the safety of the young people as a primary concern, Maybee says the best way to prevent one of these pit parties from resulting in disaster is to inform police about the party ahead of time.

"We'd like to know about them. If people are aware one of these parties is going to take place, we can increase patrols in the area and make sure no one is drinking and driving," he says. "Once there is a police presence, things usually quiet down."

The police are not opposed to young people gathering together, it's the illegal activities which take place at the parties which concern them.

"If they want to hang out in a field and feed the mosquitoes, that's fine. We're not against people having fun," he says. "But it's against the law for minors to consume alcohol, it's against the law to use or possess drugs, and it's against the law to operate a vehicle while intoxicated. These are the things we are looking out for."

The Times spoke to one young Minden resident who, earlier this year, attended a field party with about 200 - 300 other people. It was at this party that a young woman was sexually assaulted, say police.

The youth, who asked not to be identified, said for the most part the crowd at the party was well-behaved and the atmosphere subdued.

The crowd was a mixture of high school students and graduates from the high school, many of whom are now in university and college.

The youth said it was almost like a reunion, with college and university students catching up with friends they had not seen in several months.

While there was a lot of drinking, the youth did not see anyone using narcotics. There were two fist fights during the course of the party, but both ended quickly without serious injury.

Most of the party goers were unaware that a sexual assault had taken place until later that night, said the youth. A police officer did show up, and most people assumed he was there to break up the party.

At about midnight, news of the sexual assault began to circulate among the people at the party. When the youth left, at about 1 a.m., the party was still going strong and as many as 100 people stayed the night in tents.

The youth, who has attended several of these parties, says the date and location of the party was not a secret. "Everybody knew about it."

programs to Canadians. "We're not talking about the size of the package, we're talking about the size of the truck being used to deliver it," he said.

Another cost-saving measure would include privatizing Crown corporations and reducing the amount of tax credits available to corporations.

Like the private sector, Devolin said the government should be forced to cut costs in order to become "competitive" when the economy is in recession.

From the repatriation of the constitution, through the Meech Lake Accord, to the current round of studies, committees and reports, the constitutional crisis has become one of the most difficult challenges facing Canada.

Among the solutions offered by the Reform Party are an elected Senate with equal representation for all provinces, popular ratification of constitutional amendments through a national referendum, and abolishing the notion of two founding nations.

Devolin said to people in western and eastern Canada, the idea of two founding nations refers to Ontario and Quebec, not to the English and French.

"There are nine million Canadians who are neither English nor French, and the whole notion of two founding nations is irrelevant to them," he said. "There should be one kind of Canadian and one set of rules. All Canadians should be treated equally, without regard to language, race or colour."

One of the areas where the Reform Party is most likely to garner public support is with their policies on parliamentary reform.

During the negotiations to pass the Meech Lake Accord, the federal government came under heavy fire for not consulting with Canadians on major decisions.

This feeling of being left out of the process was heightened last fall when Prime Minister Brian Mulroney stacked the Senate with Conservatives to ensure passage of the Goods and Services Tax (GST) despite overwhelming opposition from the public.

Aware of the public's dissatisfaction with politicians from all parties, the Reformers advocate radical reforms to the parliamentary system which would make members of parliament more responsible to their constituents and less to party discipline.

Devolin said the party would like to see more free votes in the House of Commons which would allow members to vote according to the wishes of their constituents, even if it means going against their own party.

The party would also like to see a system in place which would allow people in a riding to recall their MP and force him to face a by-election if they are unsatisfied by his performance and feel he is not representing their wishes.

An MP would be recalled if a significant number of his constituents signed a petition requesting a by-election, explained Devolin.

Also, the Reform Party would like to change the current procedure which stipulates that if a government bill which involves spending is defeated in the house, the government loses power and an election is called.

"We should make parliament more reflective of what Canadians stand for," said Devolin.

In order for the country to survive the problems it is facing, Devolin said people are going to have to get involved in finding solutions.

"Canada is at a crossroads, and the decisions made in the next five years are going to be critical to the country," he said. "There is still time for Canadians to get involved and have input."

Devolin and a few other Reform supporters in Victoria-Haliburton formed the riding association last fall. They have spent the past several months holding public meetings to explain the Reform platform and garner support. By last Wednesday the number of members in the riding had grown to almost 400.

The Reform message was warmly greeted by the audience in Minden last week and more than once Devolin was interrupted by applause in response to his speech. After the meeting, Reform Party members were kept busy taking new memberships.

Recently the Reform Party, which began in the four western provinces, voted to expand east of the Manitoba border with the exception of Quebec. Devolin said the Victoria-Haliburton riding association will hold a nomination meeting later in the year to select a candidate for the next election.

After the meeting, people gathered around to buy membership to the Reform Party. The executive hoped to have 400 members by this week.

The Killdeer (Charadrius vociferus)

This very common and "noisy plover" occupies the marshes, shores and meadows of our Haliburton Highlands. The nest is a simple hollow in the ground, lined with a few bits of grass and smooth stones. When alarmed the Killdeer begins a "broken-wing act" giving the appearance of being injured which distracts potential predators.

The Killdeer is well camouflaged with white belly, two black bands across the breast and rusty brown upper-parts.

From the first cry of spring until they leave, late in the fall, I will always enjoy spending hours of observations, sketching and painting these impressive birds.

Facing new challenges

by Susan Grober

Mental health therapist Michael James is starting from scratch.

Not only has he started a new job, in a new area, with new clients, but he must establish a program which is completely new to the county.

"This is really exciting," says James, Senior Mental Health Therapist Co-ordinator at the Haliburton County Counselling Centre in Haliburton Village. "To create a service which has never been in the county before is a challenge."

James just found a place to live in the county, and will move there at the end of July. At present, James still lives in Peterborough, where he was the clinical manager of a family counselling centre.

"It's an established agency, so I was following another person's rules," says James.

In his new position, James works five days a week, from 9-5 p.m., and will start seeing clients during the first week of July.

For July, he plans to run the program one evening a week, and possibly two evenings a week in August.

Juggling act

James will juggle several duties in his position as co-ordinator. Seventy per cent of his time will be spent in direct consultation with clients, in assessment of needs, therapy, group therapy, and public education.

The other 30 per cent of the time, James will develop the program, and act as a consultant on mental health issues to help other service agencies in the county.

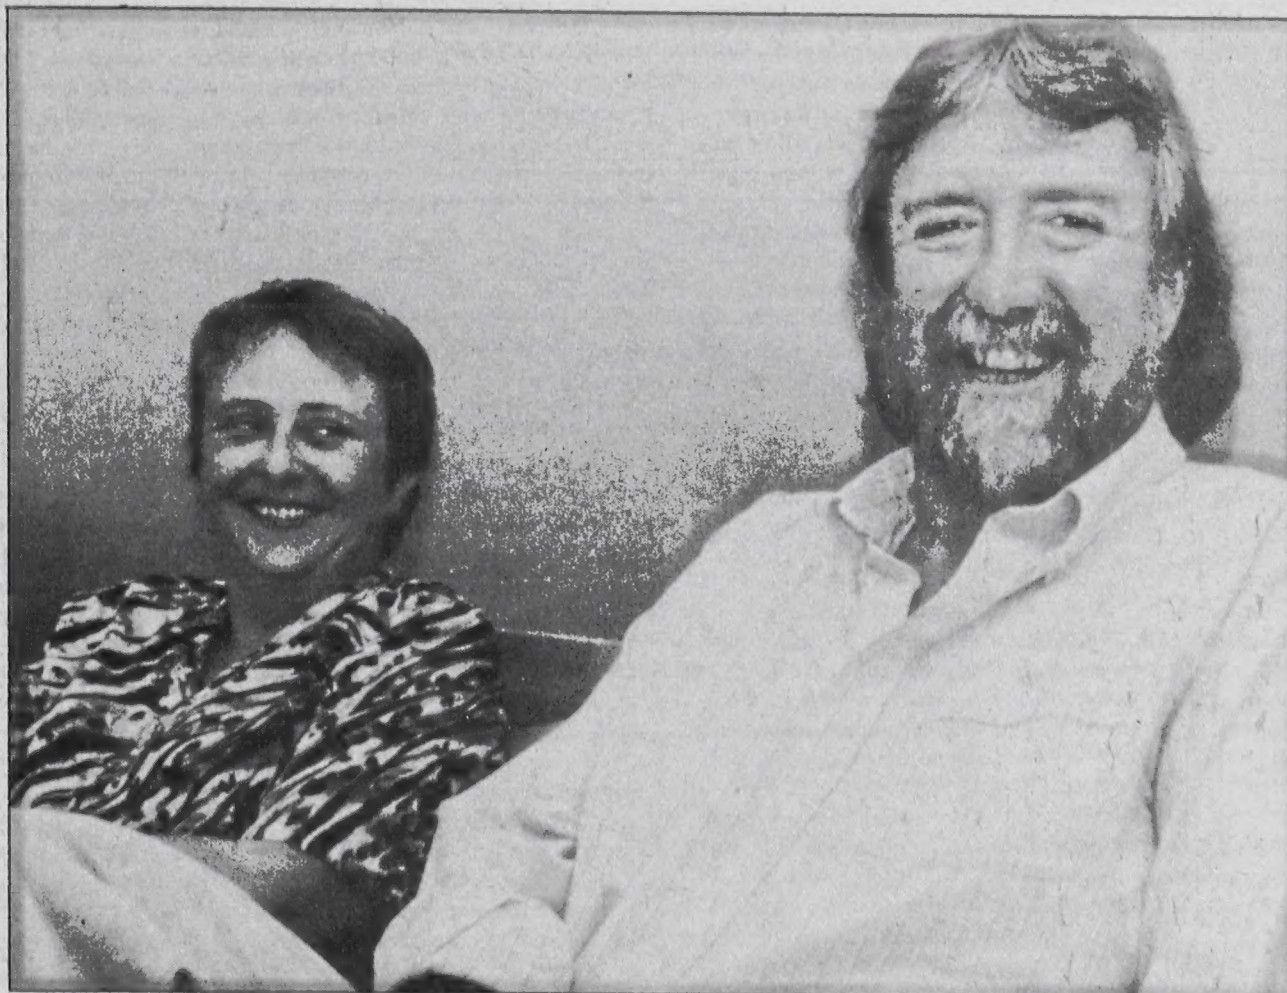

James has already started contacting social agencies, such as Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home, Kinark Child and Family Services, and FourCAST, to ensure he can offer support, rather than just duplicate the services they provide the county.

As an example, James works with clients aged "16 to the grave," while Kinark deals with those up to age 19. Therefore, he must work co-operatively with Kinark so the two agencies can help serve each other.

In order to establish and develop the program, James must assess the needs of the area. "The county is going to teach me, and tell me what it needs," he says. "That's the fun part of the job."

There will be no fee for the service, which is funded by the Ministry of Health, and was suggested by SIRCH (Support Initiatives for Residents of the County of Haliburton).

James works with Diane Dehaan, a part-time office manager. And this week James will be hiring a part-time therapist to assist in facilitating the program.

Haliburton County's new Senior Mental Health Therapist Co-ordinator, Michael James, seen here with office manager Diane Dehaan, is facing the challenge of starting a service never offered here before.

Help for everyone in need

Upon hearing that the service is now available in the county, many people will inevitably wonder whether it can help them with their problems.

Some will think a mental health therapist only helps people who have "real" problems. Others may think their problems just can't be helped.

But James says the program can help any number of people.

"One priority client group is (comprised of) residents afflicted with various mental health problems, such as schizophrenia or depression," he says. "Medical doctors have already started referring their patients to me."

An acute mental health problem could be fairly short term, and stem from such an occurrence as a tragic loss of a loved one, which results in depression, says James.

Other, more long-range, emotional problems are found in adult children of alcoholics, victims of child or spousal abuse, and those with marital problems.

"These are the various groups that are our responsibility," says James.

A woman who had recently been in an abusive relationship feels incompetent, and needs a boost to her self-esteem, says James. "She needs empowerment. She needs to believe in herself."

James says his responsibility is to make the program accessible anyone in the county — permanent residents and cottagers alike.

"So hopefully the program will expand in the future. But right now my duty is to get things off the ground and get working."

The program will have an outreach component, because part of the mandate is for the therapist to make some home visits. But James says such visits must be kept to a minimum to keep the program cost-efficient.

Another area the program will address is crisis response. "Within my schedule, I'll keep hours open each week to help if someone comes in with an acute crisis," says James, who will also work closely with the hospitals and the police for these situations.

Positive thinking

James' clients don't spend years in therapy, starting at the root of their problems, and then struggling forever to come to terms with their lives.

James has a more practical approach.

"I focus on people's strengths. I help them look back on their lives, and determine where they have been able to use their resources. Then I help them use those resources to change, and function better. To feel less anxious.

"My goal is to get them out there in the real world first, and then tackle the other things later," he says.

"I want this program to be as practical as possible, and to make it part of people's lives."

People with severe, long-term problems who require extensive therapy include perpetrators of such crimes as incest, sexual assault, or domestic violence.

"It's part of my job to assess the problems, whether I deal with them or support other agencies. That's part of the task — to make these decisions."

James also plans to run group therapy sessions, which will deal with specific issues. "For example, there are a number of people here caring for aged parents, and they could use some support."

James has a background in group therapy, and once ran a support group called For Families Only. "It would provide medical and psycho-social information, provide people with more skills and also provide them support from other people in the same situation."

Those who attend such a group might learn there are "holiday beds" available at Hyland Crest, where children could leave their older parent for a short period of time if they must go somewhere such as the hospital or on holiday.

For the group to provide specialized help, such as medical information, James would need support from outside

Setting an example

Anyone looking for the definition of the word service, as in service club, needed to look no further than Minden's Main Street this past weekend.

To the pounding of hammers and the shrill cry of Skil saws, volunteers from the Minden Kinsmen Club donated their time and expertise to assist in the raising of the community policing office next to the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Building on a foundation created by municipal road staff, the Kinsmen arrived on the site early Saturday morning and worked through to the early evening. They returned Sunday morning to finish the enclosing of the structure including a roof, doors and windows.

There is still work to be done on the interior of the building, but there is no doubt the new office will be ready for Constable Mark McMaster to set up shop by this coming weekend.

The spirit of volunteerism personified by the Kinsmen is one we like to think is easy to find in a small community, but perhaps does not make itself evident often enough. It is refreshing and encouraging to see it at work here.

That spirit needs to be revived more often. Volunteer participation and community action is especially vital when economic conditions are not as vibrant as they could be.

The Highlands has never lacked for the spirit of volunteerism and we hope it never will. Everyday our community is made better because someone has volunteered his or her time. We salute the Minden Kinsmen for showing the way. Let them be an example for us all.

Well, perhaps the truth about advertising lies somewhere in amongst the Wellsian/McLuhanesque/Barnumite extremes. There have been one or two recent guerrilla attacks upon the sleek flanks of the advertising business that neither H.G. nor Marshall nor even cynical old P.T. could ever have anticipated.

The first fire fight occurred in London, England last month at the annual Ratners convention. Ratners is the

It was especially embarrassing, then, to have some malcontent seize the microphone at the convention and proclaim that the reason Ratners was so successful was that the company sold "total crap".

"The secret of Ratner's success" hooted the troublemaker, "is bad taste and poor quality".

Bad enough to have some radical outsider disrupt convention proceedings in such a rude manner.

How much worse when the 'radical outsider' turns out to be Gerald Ratner, chief executive officer of the company in question.

The other Ratner executives scrambled to provide emergency damage control. Mister Ratner, they insisted was just making a little joke. Mister Ratner, they hinted, had perhaps lingered over-long around the after-dinner port decanter.

But I'm not buying it. I think Mister Ratner has been stricken by a virus hitherto virtually unknown in the advertising world. An insidious little beggar called truth.

There is no known cure.

Loan policies hurt small businesses during recession

Editor:

It is difficult enough, with the present economy, for our local small business to remain viable without being treated like losers by the banks. In the last few weeks a number of our small businesses have received letters from the Canadian Imperial

Bank of Commerce drastically revising their credit arrangements including, lower operating loans, higher interest rates and imposing conditions in operating the business that practically takes control away from the owner.

One would hope that with present conditions, our local banks would be attempting to help these businesses which provide employment and tax dollars to our community. But such is not the case. In fact, the banks' actions will either force these businesses to close or attempt to seek alternative financing which is not easy due to the limited number of financial institutions active in this area.

The bank would obviously like to dispose of all loans having any risk element or if not, impose extremely harsh conditions. They are very happy to accept our monies for deposit for which they pay a modest interest rate and in turn loan it back out at twice the rate they are paying. This is not a good corporate citizen.

It is unfortunate we cannot organize a strong well managed community credit union that would serve both depositors and borrowers fairly. Such competition might make the local banks change their attitude.

Perhaps the editor of this newspaper might be inclined to send a reporter around to the local banks to ascertain why they are acting in this manner at this particular time.

In the meantime, if some of our local businesses are forced to close, check with the owner to see what help, if any, they received from their banker.

G.G. Robinson,
Blairhampton.

Council will meet with critics

More good news — the light at the end of the tunnel wasn't an oncoming train. The county clerk has told us that we will be allowed to spend 15 minutes with the whole of council at their July 17 meeting. We intend to use all 900 seconds to the fullest.

Our council will be presented with the hundreds of names we received in response to their 35.7% tax hike. If you have not sent yours yet, a note to Box 923, Minden or Box 359, Haliburton will bring you on board in time.

Since it has taken three months to get to see council it will be pointless to argue their April refusal to reopen the budget, but we will press for a commitment they not spend all the extra taxes they have levied. If we spend around $150,000 less in 1991 the effect will be the same as if council had kept the locally controlled cost increases to the rate of inflation. The unspent taxes can then be used in 1992 to keep that portion to a zero-rise.

Community Tax Watch

by Gary Kenney and John Beachli

Once that commitment is made, we can join hands with council to help them tackle the provincial tax increases they are forced to collect for Mr. Rae. Until our own back yard is under control, however, we will have no credibility in that battle.

Let's hope our councillors have the political will to do what every business in the county has been doing since last fall — budgeting for survival.

Next week: Not paying your taxes as a protest. Don't pay until you hear what we say.

Decision not to fund fireworks appalls resident of Minden

Editor:

As a resident and tax supporter of Anson, Hindon and Minden I am appalled that our Council decided not to fund the cost of purchasing fireworks on July 1st - Canada Day. They have taken away an evening of enjoyment for many children and adults.

Perhaps the money usually spent on fireworks is necessary to pay a small portion of the costs incurred because certain Council Members feel they do not need to abide by Labour Laws, as set forth by the Ministry of Labour. We, the tax supporters, are paying for such things as - legal fees, a settlement package, auditors fees (to do the budget) and temporary office help.

In the midst of a recession, was a new truck for the Roads Department really necessary?

Is it any wonder a tax funded police office is necessary - our youth don't have any community sponsored programs to participate in, so they hang-out on the streets.

It is very sad indeed, that an event the majority of the community could enjoy has been taken away. Are tax dollars being spent as they should?

Barb Sisson, Minden.

Dealing with changing postal rates and computer gremlins

By Jack Brezina, Publisher

Earlier this year, we announced there would have to be a drastic increase in the amount we charged subscribers living outside a 65 kilometre radius from Minden. The increase was the result of an major increase in rates charged by the post office for delivery outside that radius. The increase was originally scheduled to come into effect on March 1.

Through some concerted lobbying by community newspapers across the country and their readers, the increase had been postponed until June 1. Just before the end of May, communications minister Perrin Beatty, once again reacting to the objections raised by the weekly press and its readers, pushed the rate increase back one year to June 1, 1992.

Many of our readers assisted us in voicing concerns to the federal government over the arbitrary nature of the increase and in particular, the size of the increase. (In the case of The Times, subscription rates for readers outside the prescribed limit would have doubled to help cover the increased cost. The potential existed for further increases directly related to postal rates, once we obtained a true measure of what impact they would have.)

As a result of this most recent announcement, our subscription rates will remain unchanged. We will not, however, be offering any multiple year renewals or new subscription offers in the immediate future. The weekly newspaper industry across the country will continue to monitor the situation in Ottawa and we will keep our readers abreast of the any changes.

Gremlins

The introduction of new technology is always fraught with pitfalls. As many of our readers noted, last week's edition of The Times caught us midway between the old way of doing things and the new.

Over the past year or so, we have been gradually introducing the use of computer technology into the preparation of this newspaper. While the transition has been relatively smooth, last week's edition was the exception which we hope, proves the rule. A number of articles in last week's newspaper went unfinished. In most cases it was simply a matter of one or two words unceremoniously chopped off by the computer. We are concerned when any error appears in this publication and, of course found the number of errors in last week's newspaper distressing to say the least.

Hopefully, we will be able to tame this technological beast and improve the quality of our publication, like the computer salesman's brochure said. In the meantime, we offer our apologies to our readers for the distractions created by the incomplete articles last week. Please bear with us while we get our computer legs under us.

Tobacco company tries a killer advertising campaign vertising" becomes a plague, what next? Balloon-Gut Beer? Cholesterol City Fast Food Joints? Ozone Smasher Hair Spray?

Before you laugh, stroll into any Los Angeles smoke shop and check out the cigarette brands. Somewhere up there on the shelf, snuggled in amongst the Pall Malls and the Lucky Strikes you should be able to find a brand new brand.

It comes in a pure black package with a skull and crossbones on the front.

And it's called simply "Death".

The fine print on the cigarette package isn't any more comforting. Where most cigarette packages talk about their wonderful filter system or the purity of their Virginia leaf the Death Cigarette package says: "Cigarettes are addictive and deadly". Where most cigarette packages carry wimpy government advisories hinting at some possible, distant connection between smoking and ill health, the Death cigarette warning says: "IF YOU DON'T SMOKE, DON'T START. IF YOU SMOKE, QUIT."

A fellow by the name of Charles Southwood is behind Death Tobacco Inc. Southwood says he's ummm, dead against smoking and he hopes his tell-it-like-it-is Death Cigarettes will persuade smokers to give up their gaspers once and for all.

In the meantime, Charles Southwood, like any forward-looking entrepreneur is ... hedging his bets somewhat.

He's already got his lawyers working on the application for trademark on the name Green Death - a menthol variation on his current brand. He also says he hopes to "go national", appealing to the younger set that he says scoffs at the idea of mortality and thinks Death Cigarettes are a joke.

Some joke. In the first two weeks, Southwood sold 25,000 packs of Death - without a word of advertising.

I don't understand it - but I'm sure P.T. Barnum would.

Cottage haven threatened by chainsaw-wielding work crew

Editor:

Seasonal resident take heed!

When you leave your property at the end of another beautiful Haliburton weekend, you may not recognize it when you return a few days later. This almost happened to us.

During the week of June 17-22, the tranquillity of our haven was severely disrupted by the sudden cacophony of numerous chain saws. Startled by this alarming intrusion, we were horrified to discover a six-man MTO crew defacing the northern-most portions of our property along Highway 35. When explanations were expediently requested, a very courteous foreman explained why he and his crew were cutting down 30 foot trees, scrub brush, and "overlapping branches" from trees 50 years old or more. It seems that the MTO in Huntsville had received numerous complaints from a neighbour, the owner of a commercial property bordering ours, about our foliage impeding the long-distance viewing of a business sign. The foreman listened sympathetically to our protests of total ignorance of these complaints and suggested calling his superior in Huntsville.

Upon contacting the Ministry official in Huntsville, and explaining our dismay and horror at the situation in hand, this official expressed concern over the work presently underway by the MTO crew. The official could hear in the background and over the telephone the chain saws at work. When this official realized the entire trees were being removed, and not just the trimming of the branches and scrub brush, an immediate "cease work" order was radioed to the work crew.

Thankfully, once again, peace returned to our little corner of Haliburton and only about one-third of the 680 foot frontage (all trees) of our property bordering Highway 35 was touched. We are extremely grateful to this Ministry official who acted promptly to our concerns. It is ministry practice not to contact property owners when such actions are being taken and this may be improper in this day and age of environmental awareness, but we can understand the ministry's position. What we don't understand is the lack of courtesy from our neighbour to at least voice their complaints to us, with the goal of a mutual solution being found.

As property owners/cottagers, thus taxpayers, since 1936, and having a deep and personal love for the scenic glory of the Haliburton Highlands, we wish to bring to the attention of our fellow residents, seasonal or permanent, long established or newly arrived, that the old-fashioned values of courtesy and respect for each other's property MUST be established by good communications.

Take a good look at your piece of Heaven, then look at your neighbours....and start talking.

Walk for Water a success

Editor:

The HAVE Walk '91 Committee would like to thank The Minden Times for covering our 8th Walk For Water on June 1st. On behalf of the thousands of villagers who are now able to help themselves in economically deprived countries, we extend heartfelt thanks to volunteers, sponsors, and walkers who made this Walk a huge success.

Our efforts not only provide technical help in the form of water wells, but these grassroots projects which include education and training, give neglected rural villagers hope and self confidence to work towards social justice. We are proud of the fact that their governments often look to our projects as examples.

Many of your readers know that this annual Walk has also been adopted by a rural community health clinic in India. We now enjoy the exchange of pictures after our walks — some wonderful pictures of happy walkers and volunteers are now in the mail.

Man charged with assaulting wife will be tried

The following Minden court cases were heard in Lindsay Provincial Court by Judge A.P. Nasmith last Wednesday. Jerry Woron acted as Crown Attorney.

Assault charges go to trial

A Minden man will go to trial for charges of assaulting his wife and children over a three-year period.

At a preliminary hearing, Judge Nasmith decided there is enough evidence to hold a trial.

The accused man will appear at a pre-trial conference in Lindsay in July before a trial date is set.

The man will stand trial on a number of assault charges, and one assault causing bodily harm charge.

Crown Attorney Jerry Woron suggested the trial be held in Minden at the convenience of the accused, even though "I know we're trying to pare down the Minden court lists."

At the request of the complainant, the trial will be held in Lindsay.

Because Judge Nasmith ordered a publication ban of any information which would identify the children, the accused cannot be named.

Man will take caution in future

A man who drove six hours after drinking says he realizes now his liver can't handle excessive alcohol.

John Michael Procher was stopped by Apsley police for speeding in Cardiff Township on November 6, 1990.

Two breathalyzer tests were taken, with readings of 220 mg and 180 mg of alcohol in

In the courts

100 ml of blood. Because of the wide divergence between the tests, a third was required, with a result of 198 mg of alcohol.

Procher, 48, said he had been drinking heavily the night before driving, and was not aware the alcohol could have stayed in his system.

"That must of been one heck of a party," said Crown Attorney Jerry Woron.

Procher said he drank two or three double vodkas, and four beers. He had his last drink at 1 a.m., and slept about six hours before driving.

Procher said he had hepatitis when he was younger, and suffered liver damage, which may have affected the breathalyzer readings.

Woron said Procher should have realized that his liver could not handle the alcohol.

"I totally realize that now," said Procher.

Procher was fined the minimum $300, and lost his licence for one year.

"You'll be careful next time," warned Judge Nasmith.

Vehicle found in ditch

A 58-year-old man was fined $500 after pleading guilty to impaired care and control of a vehicle.

On January 12, police found a vehicle in the ditch, stuck in the snow, with the motor running in Guilford Township.

Inside was Kurt Frank Graf, who smelled of alcohol. Graf was taken to the Minden OPP detachment and given two breathalyzer tests, determining he had 205 and 200 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood. The legal limit is 80 mg.

Along with the fine, Graf faced the mandatory one year licence suspension and prohibition from driving.

"I guess it's fortunate things weren't worse than they were in that situation," said Judge Nasmith. "It's a very dangerous situation."

Impaired driving charges laid

During the week of June 10 to 16 officers of the Minden Detachment investigated 103 general occurrences and 17 accidents with two persons injured.

Charged Threatening Calls

On June 12, Allen Dean Bacon, 30, of R. R. #1, Kinmount, was charged with making threatening phone calls and assault after police investigated a series of incidents. Bacon was released at a Bail Hearing on June 12, to appear in court on July 5. On June 16 Bacon was found to be operating a vehicle around the residence of the victim of the previous incidents and again arrested this time with care and control while impaired, being over the legal limit of 80 mgs and breach of an undertaking. Bacon was ordered held in custody at a bail hearing on Monday, June 17.

Rabid fox attacks chickens and ducks near Minden

by Susan Grober

A rabid fox was shot and killed hours after it was seen chasing a car just outside of Minden Village.

There has been a high incidence of rabies this year, with a number of cases reported in Dorset, Haliburton, Kilmount, and now Minden.

Last Tuesday evening, Jeanne Parcell-Hughes, who lives on Highway 121, three miles north of Minden, received a call about the car-chasing fox from a neighbour.

Later, after Parcell-Hughes and her husband, Larry Hughes, returned home from their son's baseball game, they found two ducks missing from their pond, and all their mother hens and some chicks missing.

Parcell-Hughes saw a fox sitting on the couple's trailer, so she called her husband, who went out and shot it.

The couple contacted the Ministry of Natural Resources, and the dead fox was sent to the Ministry of Agriculture, which determined it did have rabies.

"He really looked it, because he was desperately thin and slimy," says Parcell-Hughes.

The couple lost two ducks and five young chickens. Their horses are now under quarantine for 60 days, and must be handled with gloves and kept away from people.

"But there's nothing to show they've been affected," says Parcell-Hughes.

The rest of the couple's ducks and chickens could have carried the rabies virus for 48 hours after the incident if the fox's saliva got on their feathers or in a wound.

However, the birds can't contract rabies because they have a high body temperature and better immune system, says Parcell-Hughes.

"I'm very pleased about that, because I wouldn't want to lose any more birds," she says. "And I was so pleased when I heard the fox was dead, because I was afraid Larry might have missed it."

Parcell-Hughes says she knew there were a large number of rabid foxes in the county this year, "but I never really expected to find it here."

Tom Reddering of the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit says he has recently dealt with seven or eight cases of rabid foxes.

Fun and games in the Highlands

With a skirl of the bagpipes and a pounding of the drums, the third annual Highland Games held at Glebe Park in Haliburton was a smashing success last Saturday. The throng of onlookers, armed with lawn chairs and umbrellas, were entertained by bands in full Scottish regalia, highland dancers with twirling skirts, and brawny participants in the many games, which included tug-of-war, stone putting and hammer throwing. Fortunately, the weather was perfect, as a cool, comfortable morning turned into a hot, sunny afternoon.

Amalgamation of children's services will be studied

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Haliburton Social Action Committee has been granted $75,000 to study the possible amalgamation of children's services in the county.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville announced the study at a press conference in Haliburton Village last Friday.

The study, which is expected to be completed by March 1992, will investigate possible benefits of combining services, which are funded by the Ministry of Community and Social Services, offered by Case Coordination, the Social Action Committee, Parent Support Services, Kinark Child and Family Services, the Children's Aid Society and the Infant Development Program, which is administered by Kinark.

"In the last period of time, our government has attempted to integrate and coordinate services," Drainville said. "This is one more effort being put in place."

Drainville said one of the advantages of the study is that it is pro-active and will enhance existing services so they are able to meet the needs of the community.

"Haliburton has good services, but it needs better services," he said.

The request for the study came from the Social Action Committee and Gena Robertson, who chairs the committee, called the study, "a pretty exciting project."

Currently Haliburton is served by the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society, which also serves Peterborough and Victoria Counties.

Kinark Child and Family Services is administered by the agency's board of directors which is based in Toronto.

The Social Action Committee believes that, whenever possible local services should be managed by a local board of directors.

"We're not saying we will amalgamate," said Robertson. "The study will look at where we can pool our resources. There is not a pre-determined result."

The study will look at the strengths and weaknesses of current service delivery, the different legislation which controls the various agencies involved in the study, and make sure staff members do not feel threatened by the proposed amalgamation.

A steering committee for the study has been struck and includes representatives from the fields of health, education, social services and municipal government.

The consultant chosen to conduct the study is Nancy Draper, who worked on the Strategic Plan for Child Care in Haliburton County, which was released earlier this year.

According to a discussion paper on the proposed amalgamation of children's services, joining services will allow agencies to share physical space, shared equipment, joint training, sharing of resources and shared volunteers.

Drainville says the philosophy of combining and coordinating services is being adopted throughout the province, and is the kind of approach taken by the recently completed Directional Plan for Haliburton County's long-term health, housing and social service needs.

"Haliburton County is now on the cutting edge," he said. "The study we've just gotten through is being looked at by the ministry (of health) and at a meeting with them, they talked about it very optimistically."

The health ministry is in the process of reviewing the directional plan, and Drainville says he's optimistic that the report will be approved.

"When the ministry responds, and the money starts flowing, the system set up in Haliburton County will be one of the first of its kind in the province," he said. "We've waited 10 years, but we're in position now to receive a lot of benefits by being the first. There is a lot of goodwill on the part of the government."

Snowdon funded to repair damage from flooding

by Susan Grober

The Ministry of Transportation will provide 80 per cent funding for a $40,000 project to repair recent flood damage to the Snowdon Township's roads.

When heavy rains caused the Irondale and Burnt rivers to flood in early April, the township immediately contacted the province for assistance.

"Almost every road in the township had culverts washed out," says township Clerk-Treasurer Ernie Hills. "It costs thousands of dollars to refill the roads and get them back into operational shape."

Normally, the ministry splits road funding costs 50-50 with the municipality.

But Snowdon has received approval for additional funding under the ministry's special projects allocations.

Special construction projects approved by the ministry receive more funding, from 75 to 80 per cent of the total cost.

This funding usually goes toward projects a municipality couldn't otherwise afford, such as the cost of hardtopping a stretch of road.

Against Our Will Is Against The Law.

If you're like most people, you'll look at this and think rape.

Well, think again.

Because sexual assault isn't only rape. It's any unwanted act of a sexual nature imposed by one person on another.

And if you think it's always a dark alley and a violent stranger, you're wrong again.

More than half of all sexual assaults of women are committed by men they know.

It can occur on a date. Between friends. Even between husband and wife.

So most people don't think of it as a crime. And often it goes unreported.

But attitudes must change.

Because against our will is against the law.

If your life has been affected by sexual assault, find out what can be done. Contact a sexual assault service. Or talk to someone you trust.

Men must understand that sexual assault is a crime.

Maybe then they'll think twice about it.

Making a commitment to Haliburton

agencies.

"I also want very much to deal with other agencies, and help out with their groups," says James. "If the Women's Safety Network runs a group, I could talk at two or three sessions about the perpetrators of abuse against women."

The fact that James shares a building with such agencies as the Social Action Committee and Case Co-ordination helps a great deal. "And the people here are just great," he says.

In the streets

James received his Bachelor degree in social work from McMaster University, and his Masters in social work from the University of Toronto.

His background is varied — he's been a street worker, has worked with sexual abuse victims, and has done childcare work.

He has a fascination with his job, and is constantly striving for more information, both through books and real life experiences.

"One year, four of us paid thousands of dollars for a person to come in once a week with us to train us to do therapy," he says.

Over the years, he has gained a great deal of hands-on experience in dealing with traumas suffered by people ranging from drug addicts to sexual abuse victims. He has also co-led rapists groups.

James has also worked in many different areas, from British Columbia to downtown Toronto.

But he plans to stay in Haliburton County for quite some time.

So those who are afraid of spilling their guts to a therapist one week, and having him take-off for a higher paying job a week later, needn't worry.

"One of the concerns of the mental health therapist hiring committee was that they hire somebody who was going to make a commitment," says James. "I plan to rent for a few years, and then make a down payment and buy a small house on a lake, here."

James certainly chose the right area to enjoy his hobbies. He loves to canoe, is an avid fly-fisherman, reads science fiction and fantasy, and has a passion for native art.

He has family in nearby Huntsville, and friends in the outlying areas of Peterborough, Lindsay and Toronto, making the county a far more convenient place to live than B.C.

In the future, James hopes to prove his intentions of settling into the county by making a true commitment. He'd like to get a dog. "I have a big, fenced-in yard, and I've always wanted a golden Lab," he says.

Gaining trust

James is an amiable person, who wants clients to open up and put their trust in his abilities.

Once a client does that, James will then ask what the client wants out of therapy.

"You teach me how you want to be," he says. "That's showing respect for people."

"The client is the one with the answers. Somewhere in the client's mind is what he wants to be. And that's the point I have to touch, to help him be stronger."

The only time James helps guide a patient toward an ideal is "when he's something like an abuser, a rapist or a delusive patient who thinks God is sitting next to him."

As a social worker, James deals with the client, his immediate family, his extended family, and his community. "It's a systems approach," he says. "I do a talking form of therapy."

This job is different from that of a psychiatrist, who is a trained doctor and can prescribe medicine, and a psychologist, who works more on the internal thought process.

"Still, all our aims are for the health of the patient," says James.

"We all have a part to play. I'd rather see our professionals co-operate with one another to help people with all their needs."

James is enthusiastic about his new job. "I'm really happy I'm here, and I'm looking forward to the next few years. It's going to be hard work, but I'll have fun doing it."

Some people may be hesitant to seek mental health therapy in a small community where everyone knows everybody else's business. So James offers assurance that the program is confidential.

"If I walk down the street, I won't acknowledge a client, only so they won't be known as one of my clients," he says. "After awhile, I'll be known in the community, and I would never embarrass a client by letting on that I know them."

"On the other hand, if they approach me first, I'll be glad to stop and talk."

Arson charges are stayed

by Susan Grober

A Crown Attorney will appeal a county court decision to stay arson charges against a former Minden couple.

Arson charges laid two years ago against Wilbert and Patricia Dennison were stayed on June 14 during a pre-trial conference because the matter took too long to come to trial, says OPP Constable Brian Dunham.

The Dennisons were charged jointly for a fire which occurred at their Highland Gate Estates home on October 22, 1989. Mr. Dennison was also charged independently for a separate fire which occurred several hours later in the home, on October 23.

Because the couple elected for a judge and jury trial, the matter was dealt with in county, rather than provincial, court.

"County court is the court above the provincial level," explains Dunham.

During the pre-trial conference, the county court judge granted an Askov motion made by the couple's defence lawyer, Wally Scott, to dismiss the charges because it took an unreasonable length of time for the matter to come to trial.

Crown Attorney Chris Meinhardt is planning to appeal.

Sports

Minor Baseball games are played every Monday night at the ball diamonds at the Minden Arena.

A member of the Hustlers baseball team heads for first base as the ball dribbles toward the pitcher. The Hustlers faced Bracebridge Thursday night on the local diamond, and despite some tight play, went down to a 2-1 loss. The team is on the road this week, with action resuming in Minden July 4.

Hustlers lose two close games

It was not a week of wins for the Rockcliffe Hustlers as they settled in to the Tri-County league schedule. In two games this past week they came up one run short to give the opposition the victory. In both contests, however, the competition was keen and the quality of ball high.

In Monday night's contest, the Hustlers travelled to Bobcaygeon where they went down to a 6-5 defeat. Jack Snell was on the mound for the Hustlers, while Roger Harrison claimed the victory for the hosts. Greg Newell hit a home run for Minden in that contest.

Back in town for the usual Thursday night contest, Bracebridge squeezed by on a 2-1 score to take the evening. Brian Shaw was pitching for Minden while Bill Michell claimed the win for Bracebridge.

There is no home game schedule for this week for the Hustlers, however they do have three road games lined up. Monday they are back in Bobcaygeon, Wednesday they play in Fenelon Falls and Sunday they have a game in Lindsay. The next home game is slated for July 4 when they face Bobcaygeon.

Local Senior Games end with closing luncheon

by Susan Grober

The theme was active living for seniors. And, boy, are these seniors active.

The closing luncheon for participants of the Haliburton County Senior Games filled the Haliburton Legion with 168 people last Thursday afternoon.

They turned out for fellowship and fun, and received awards to boot. After the meal, Games Chairman Ross Farr introduced the many guests.

The first was Bjorn Nielson, from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation, who told how the province has contributed funding to develop the games, and to help such seniors' facilities as Club 35 in Carnarvon.

Fred Andrews, of the Older Adult Centres Association of Ontario (OACAO), the parent of the Ontario Senior Games, talked about the importance of active living for seniors.

Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis appeared on behalf of County Warden Carol Puffer, who Farr said has shown great support to the Senior Games but couldn't make it to the luncheon.

Reeve Davis was his usual witty self, and suggested a new category to add to the list of Senior Games competitions — mud-wrestling.

But Farr had far more traditional suggestions, including cycling, marathon dancing, race-walking, art, photography, baking, and Scrabble. Another man recommended square dancing.

In his first year as chairman, Farr said he has learned the importance of getting exposure to promote the events.

He hopes to approach the various seniors' groups in the county, as well as the Chamber of Commerce.

In the meantime, he reminded members that the all-Ontario Senior Games competition will be held next year at McMaster University on August 24, 25 and 26. The competition, which is held every other year, is partly funded by a $150,000 grant from the tourism ministry.

There are many contributors to the local games as well, and they were recognized for their donations: Paul Norry, Manager of Toronto Dominion Bank, Minden; Clyde Russell, Manager of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce; Lew Tompkins, President of Minden Indoor Lawn Bowling.

Also, representatives of the legions in Minden, Kinmount, Wilberforce and Haliburton were thanked for donating money to Man charged after accident

A 17-year-old received minor injuries when his car was rear-ended after he stopped for a school bus.

Last Monday afternoon, a Northernways Transit school bus stopped with its lights flashing on Highway 121, three km from Minden, to let off two children at a usual stop.

Timothy Reid drove into the back of a car driven by Joel Cox, 17, who had stopped behind the school bus.

"The lights were on, I heard screeching, and there was a crash," the school bus driver, Heinrich Casper, said to police.

Cox sustained whiplash as a result of the accident.

Police charged Reid with careless driving.

Rent controls are misunderstood

The Legislature is now dealing with an important piece of legislation that has been a source of consistent and continual misinformation. Some see rent controls as responsible for the current problems in rental housing supply and maintenance. This often repeated charge is putting the cart ahead of the horse, for it is precisely because of the growing shortage of affordable rental units that a Conservative government first introduced this measure in Ontario for the protection of tenants. No government since, whether Conservative or Liberal, has dared to remove completely a system of rent control because of the damage it would do to the province's three million tenants.

In the late 1970's when rent controls were first brought in by the Bill Davis government, it was becoming increasingly clear that the private sector was no longer building anything but high-rent luxury housing. The reasons for this are complex but essentially have to do with land speculation and changes in the economy and tax system that made other kinds of investments more attractive. Of course, since it was still profitable to build commercial space and luxury housing, the private sector has continued to do a fine job in meeting that need. But the growing shortage of lower cost "affordable" housing was pushing rents rapidly beyond the means of many of Ontario's citizens. Those who look at this issue with an open mind should also note that other jurisdictions such as New York City, whose governments were also facing this same economic situation in housing were also forced to bring in rent controls. They didn't do it because of political persuasion, they did it because it was forced upon them by circumstances.

Drainville Diary A report from Queen's Park

With Dennis Drainville, MPP

The private sector does many things well if it can find a profitable course to follow. But the private sector isn't by its nature able to respond to the needs of people when there isn't a profit in so doing. It is government's job to do that — to regulate the economy in the public interest and see that the basic needs of the population are being met by the economic and social institutions that exist as a result of the decisions it makes — or fails to make.

The new rent control legislation brought in by our government is meant to strike a difficult but necessary balance between the need of tenants for decent and affordable housing and the need to continue to allow the private sector to operate in the provision of a part of the housing supply of Ontario. It provides the best security that tenants have ever had by guaranteeing that they won't continue to face the kind of enormous and unpredictable increases that the old system allowed. At the same time it recognizes the unavoidable cost increases in order to adequately maintain the building they own. Further, it provides the best system yet to insure that buildings are adequately maintained.

One major problem is municipalities which do not allow apartments in single family dwellings or restrict the size of new housing to only large single family homes or expensive condominiums. Often private developers have made requests to build affordable housing, but have been stymied by local biases.

Many other things need to be done to improve the availability and quality of our housing stock and to enhance the choices of individuals and meet their needs. However the private sector alone, without financial incentives from the taxpayer will not provide adequately for the housing needs of Ontario's population.

Specific details and information on the Rent Control Legislation is available from my constituency office. I urge any one with concerns or questions to contact me.

MNR shoreline rules find opposition in Dysart

by Susan Grober

Dysart council may help landowners fight against recent Ministry of Natural Resources restrictions on the sale of municipally-owned shoreline road allowances to adjacent property owners.

In March, the ministry announced it has revised its criteria for reviewing shoreline closures in an attempt to protect fish and wildlife habitat. Municipalities were asked to retain municipal road allowances which are necessary to provide access to water, and which are adjacent to fish and wildlife habitats.

At last Monday's council meeting, Planning Administrator Jody Ainsworth said she has met with the Ministry for further input on the restrictions. And she said there is no provincial legislation which gives the ministry such authority.

When the ministry makes an objection, it's as an adjacent landowner, she said. Then the final decision is up to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs.

"They've got every control they need," said Councillor Murray Fearrey. "If they haven't got any legislation, then why don't we carry on the way we did?"

Ainsworth said she's concerned ratepayers will waste their money by paying for a survey, and then having the ministry turn down a closure application.

"But you can't go around making rules without anything to back them up," said Fearrey. "I'd be prepared to say we'd help the landowners fight it through."

Deputy-Reeve Lloyd Leadbeater said he would like to see co-operation between councils and landowners, and the ministry.

"But it doesn't seem to be co-operative," he said. "It's dictatorial, and they're telling us what to do."

Ainsworth told council she doesn't feel publicly-owned land is better protected. "We understand why (the ministry has) concerns, but don't agree it's a good method," she said.

Ainsworth said she indicated at the meeting that she would like to write to the ministry regarding her concerns.

However, lands and parks supervisor Mike Belcher phoned her to say he'd prefer to meet with council to discuss the matter, rather than receive any more letters.

Council will ask Belcher to attend its July 8 meeting.

Arena blueprints are ready

Drawings for the new addition to the Minden Community Centre have arrived. According to the chairman of the fund raising committee construction on the project could begin by early August.

Chairman Bob Wells said the complete set of specifications and blue-prints for the addition arrived on Friday. Tender documents are now being prepared and a formal tender call is expected to appear in next week's edition of The Times.

The plans call for a 70 by 40 addition to the rear of the existing community centre, (the area behind the current stage and bar) and the creation of a new entrance at the front of the addition and the existing structure measuring 35 by 35. The entrance would include space for a coat room and washrooms. Included in the addition are plans to install folding divider walls which would allow the 'L' shaped building to be used as one large room, or sectioned off into three smaller rooms or one small and a medium size room. Access to each of the smaller rooms will be available directly through the common entrance.

Now that the plans are in hand, the fund raising chairman notes that their work must get underway in earnest. The Minden Rotary Club has already committed $100,000 to the effort. The province has also made a major contribution of $143,000 under the Tourism and Recreation grant program. The municipality has also committed funds to the project but is looking to the public for contributions. The exact amount required from public subscription will not be known until the tender is finally awarded.

Wells said that a meeting has been called for Tuesday night at the community centre at which time the public will have an opportunity to examine the details of the expansion. At the same time, the chairman will be looking for individuals who are interested in serving on the fund raising committee. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Charity run needs organizer

As The Terry Fox Run enters a new decade of raising money for cancer research, Ontarians continue to support the dream of a young man who believed that he could make a difference.

Terry Fox's efforts to end the suffering caused by cancer were not in vain - millions of Canadians have embraced Terry's dream as their own and have enabled great progress to be made through research.

We are seeking an individual, family or group in Minden to step forward and organize a Terry Fox Run on Sunday, September 15th. The reward for being an organizer is the enormous satisfaction gained from encouraging your community to contribute to the remembrance of a truly heroic effort while at the same time funding cancer research.

We need to take heart in Terry's words "I believe in miracles" and take part in making them happen. Please call 1-800-387-1200 for information about how to get involved.

Former teacher will be missed

On May 31, 1991 Muriel Brown died in Brantford General Hospital, Brantford, Ontario. Her many friends and colleagues in Haliburton County, where she spent her long teaching career, will mourn her passing.

Mrs. Brown was born on March 13, 1905 in St. George, near Brantford. She spent her early years there and later attended Hamilton Normal School.

As a teacher, she touched the lives of countless young people who still remember with pleasure and gratitude her influence on their lives.

While teaching in Carnarvon, she met and married Norman Brown. Norman's family pioneered in this area and Mr. Brown Senior (Edmund 1854 - 1924) was the first Superintendent of Zion Church School, a position he held for eleven years.

Mrs. Brown was active in community affairs; worked in church and Sunday School and in the Teachers' Federation. She and Norman were members of the Zion United Church, Carnarvon. They built a home on beautiful Echo Bay, Lake Boshkung and after Norman's death, Mrs. Brown sold the home to Norman's nephew, Douglas Brown. The property is now occupied by Doug's widow, Claire Brown.

Mrs. Brown spent her final years in Brantford where she moved in 1976. There she joined Brant Avenue United Church; was a member of Oakhill Women's Institute and Queensway Baptist Fellowship. She was buried in Zion United Church Cemetery, beside her husband.

In Brantford, a Memorial Tree will be planted in her memory.

Mrs. Muriel Brown

This loving tribute to an old friend and colleague was written by Muriel Harrison and submitted by Claire Brown.

Constitution must evolve along with the citizens of Canada

Canada was not created by dusty parchments drawn over 100 years ago in Paris or London. We owe Canada to the men and women who were here thousands of years ago, to those who came from France and Great Britain hundreds of years ago, and to those who later came from all corners of the world.

To create this country, Canadians put together their dreams and their aspirations.

The country has evolved, but not our Constitution. Canadians do not identify with their Constitution ... the one document the people of a nation should be proud of.

The need for change is being felt in all regions of the country. And it is needed, not for the sake of change, but to improve Canada as a country, a country with which everyone will identify. But the difficulty is not making changes, it is finding the way to do it right.

Canadians expressed their opinions to the Citizens' Forum (also known as the Spicer Commission), to the Beaudoin-Edwards Commission (presently studying the amending process) and to various provincial commissions. Canadians, instead of simply listing problems, are now looking at solutions.

Report from Ottawa

from the office of Bill Scott, MP

Some people want us to submit a proposal immediately, without waiting for those commissions' reports, without waiting for your opinion. We do not intend to apologize for asking your opinion. We want to benefit fully from the reports of the Citizens' Forum and other consultations in progress throughout Canada. You spoke, and you are worth listening to!

We will table a proposal this fall. A Parliamentary Committee will consult you for your opinion. When this committee submits its report, we will let you know what our plans are for a renewed Canada.

We have a goal: to implement bold and deep reforms never attempted before. There will be changes because it is possible to bring change and because it is our duty to do so.

Let's work together. Let's build a Canada for Canadians!

SERVING THE SOLID FUEL INDUSTRY

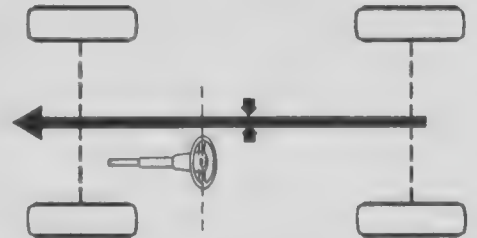

Beef was on the menu June 15 as members of Zion United Church in Carnarvon invited the community to join them for one of the many centennial celebrations planned for the summer. Ralph Johnson, left and Sam Rogers remove the last of three roasts from the barbecue spit for the hungry guests. The evening, which included a street dance, attracted several hundred participants and could become an annual event.

A glimpse into the future

by Susan Grober

When I put both hands down on the table, they were shaking ever so slightly.

I was nervous. I'd never been to a psychic before, and didn't know what to expect. What if she predicted I would die at age 25... or never get married and have children... or end up as a bag lady on the streets of downtown Toronto?

Of course, I was also skeptical. After all, how can someone predict your future just by looking at your palms, or laying a few cards on a table?

I decided to keep an open mind while undergoing the reading, but also take the predictions with a grain of salt.

The table where my hands were resting was covered with a cloth decorated with a mystical array of stars. A candle was burning. And a tape deck was recording every word the psychic told me, so I could take it home for future reference.

Eszter Bokfi actually bills herself as "the great seer" rather than a psychic. She says the terms all mean the same thing, but she's more comfortable with calling herself a seer. "Psychics are a little bit way-out weird," she says with a laugh.

She instructs me to put my hands on the table, palms down to start, and notes that I wear a number of silver rings, just as she does. "Silver protects us from evil influences," she says.

On her right hand is a ring with a huge turquoise stone, and another with a pentagram, which is a five-pointed star. A similar pendant hangs on a chain around her neck. "When you deal with supernatural things, you have to protect yourself," she says.

On Bokfi's left hand, her ring finger is adorned with traditional gold engagement and wedding rings. Her husband, Steve, also does readings. He calls himself a psychic.

Before doing the reading, Bokfi tells me to enjoy it, as Eszter Bokfi actually bills herself as "the great seer" rather than a psychic. "Psychics are a little bit way-out weird," she says with a laugh.

it's only offered for entertainment. Everything she says should be taken with a grain of salt. She later explains this disclaimer is required by law.

She looks at my hands, and notices the fingers are spread. That means I keep an open mind.

Examining further, she finds I am down to earth, and enjoy children, animals and being outdoors. I love knowledge and learning. I'm very independent, and hate to be told what to do. (My father would readily agree with that last one.)

From my left hand she can tell I used to be very shy, and from my right hand she learns I am getting more confident as I get older. (When I first decided to take journalism, all my friends said I was too shy and quiet.)

She tells me my throat is sensitive, and so is my nervous system. I'm both logical and skeptical. And I am good in business, and take great pride in my work.

She said I'm a good cook. (True enough.) I have a natural intuitiveness. (My friend thinks I'm psychic.) And I can't always hear properly. (I often get teased by friends for either ignoring them, or misunderstanding their comments, because I can't hear what they say.)

I'm level-headed and have an honest personality. (That's nice to hear.) As a teenager, I hated school. (Boy, did I ever.) And I enjoy sex and money. (Who doesn't?)

Bokfi also tells me of my future, and I'm relieved to hear I could live past my 80s.

She also tells me about a more controversial subject —

Eszter Bokfi, a professional psychic who recently visited Minden from her home in Fesserton, can predict a client's future just by looking at the cards. She will return to do more readings this summer.

reincarnation. From a small part of my palm she finds I was once a very religious Christian, possibly a priest or a nun. In yet another life, I was a pilot. (A woman at work suggests I might have been the flying nun.)

From the neutral colour of my palm, she can tell I'm well-adjusted. Too much yellow would mean a tendency toward dishonesty, and redness means the possibility of an ulcer.

After one last glance at my palm, Bokfi looks up at me with a smile.

"You and I just have the same problem," she says. "We drink too much coffee, and always seem to be on the road."

Next, Bokfi asks when I was born, and gives me a run-down of my astrological sign, Sagittarius.

Then she gives me a reading with Gypsy cards, to predict things which will happen within the next two years.

From these cards I learn I will travel, go to a baby shower, and visit someone in a hospital.

(from page 33)

Half an hour has passed, and the reading is finished. Bokfi and I join her husband for coffee and talk about the couple's decidedly unusual profession.

But first Mrs. Bokfi tells her husband to guess my sign. He looks me up and down, and says he isn't sure. He asks me to put my hands down on the table.

"It's very hot," says Mrs. Bokfi, as she fans herself.

"You're a fire sign, aren't you?" says Mr. Bokfi. I nod to agree. "She's a fire sign, Eszter. Isn't she?"

"Yes," says Mrs. Bokfi. "Just like my mother."

Mr. Bokfi points at me, and asks: "You're a Sagittarius, right?"

Yes, I say. You're correct.

Taking care of business

The Bokfis live in Fesserton, between Orillia and Midland, and travel to other areas for group readings at restaurants, parties, speaking engagements and bridal showers.

They charge $22 for a reading at their office, and $25 for group house calls. Three dollars from each reading is donated toward the bride when they do showers.

Eszter and Steve Bokfi are both natives of Hungary, where Mrs. Bokfi says she was taught the ancient craft by a Gypsy when she was 13 years old.

"I was always interested in everything to do with readings, the occult, and the supernatural," she says. "I was taught be a Gypsy girl, and exchanged lunch for her knowledge. She's a big girl now."

Mrs. Bokfi would read the palms of co-workers at her factory job, before being laid-off and becoming a professional seer 12 years ago.

She taught her husband to do readings seven years ago. "He wasn't interested in it until then," she says. "Now, after living together for 25 years, that's all we talk about. But he still gets mad when I tell him how a movie is going to end."

Although there is much to learn before being able to do readings, Mrs. Bokfi says a person must also have a basic talent. "Otherwise, it's not going to work."

Along with palmistry and card reading, Mrs. Bokfi does numerology and hand writing analysis. Instead of using the more well-known tarot cards, she and her husband use European Gypsy cards.

"It's a smaller deck," says Mrs. Bokfi. "We use 36 cards, and with tarot cards there are 78."

"And we use the whole deck, not just 10 or 12 as with tarot cards," says Mr. Bokfi.

Many people who come for readings are skeptical, and some actually try to play tricks on the reader. They take off their wedding rings, or even lie during the reading, says the couple.

Others come with a more open mind, and are surprised at what they hear. Some actually break down in tears.

"Many times a customer has shown he doesn't believe, but then you don't even finish the reading and he quiets down so fast because he's shocked at what your telling him," says Mr. Bokfi. "It's a little scary for them, I guess."

There are also people who don't approve of psychics. These people are afraid that psychics deal with evil spirits, which should be left alone.

"Those people are very religious," says Mrs. Bokfi. "They do not see more than what they are taught to see."

Mrs. Bokfi says the predictions which are found in the Gypsy cards come from spirits. She's asked what spirits. "We don't know," she says.

She believes western society is too rigid. In Asian countries, such as China, Japan and India, the people take the occult very seriously, and will consult a reader even before entering a temple.

Mrs. Bokfi has made a couple of visits to Minden, and has found many interested customers here. Anyone interested in making an appointment for a reading in Minden in July or August can phone 286-1744, after 6 p.m. Or, the Bokfis can be contacted at (705) 686-3870.

Steve Bokfi checks the palm of his wife, Eszter. Both are psychics.

ASES honours 1991 graduates

The auditorium at Archie Stouffer Elementary School was filled to capacity Thursday night as 68 members of this year's graduating classes received their diplomas.

As Haliburton County Board of Education Trustee Mary Anne Wilson pointed out in her address to the graduates, the evening marked an important point in the students' lives. She said the students were fortunate to be moving on to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Wilson said the school is small enough not to be an impersonal institution, but large enough to offer a variety of educational and extracurricular opportunities. The trustee wished the graduates success as they enter this new phase in their education and lives.

In addition to the diplomas which were presented, a number of special awards also recognized outstanding students from this year's graduating class. Among those awards were:

-Honour Students: graduates who have achieved an 80% or better average in all their subjects. This year's honour students included Stacey Bunn, Cara Donnery, Robin Flood, Kyla Grexton, Bobbi Griffin, Haley Lynch, Aimee Mansfield, Carol Mowat, Thomas O'Shaughnessy, Meaghan Obee, Melissa Schaus, Anna Tomlinson, Will Wallace and Cassie Weyrich.

Bobbi Griffin accepts the Terry Spooner Memorial Award from Joshua Jarvis. The award was created in memory of one of their former classmates.

-The Tim Harrison Memorial Award was presented to Carol Mowat. The award, named in honour of a former Archie Stouffer student who died in a hockey accident, recognizes outstanding student musical ability, leadership and responsibility.

-The Athletic Achievement Award was presented to Anna Tomlinson and Bobbi Griffin for their outstanding contribution as athletes and supporters of the athletic program.

-The Alan Walker Award was presented to John Kovacks. This award recognizes the student who demonstrates the qualities of good citizenship, neighbourliness and is generally helpful in the school when dealing with fellow students, teachers and staff.

-The Terry Spooner Memorial Award was presented to Bobbi Griffin. Fellow graduate Joshua Jarvis presented this award to an outstanding student from this year's class. The award recognizes excellence in creative writing. It was created following the death of Terry Spooner two years ago and has advanced each year with Terry's classmates. The award next year will be presented to a grade six student.

-The County Town Museum Award was presented to Cara Donnery. The award recognizes excellence in the study of history.

-The Horseshoe Lake Property Owners Association award was presented for the first time this year. Announced by the group's president, Vern Gilbert, the award recognizes students' interest in and concern for the environment as expressed in an essay. The winners this year included Carol Mowat, Meaghan Obee and Lynn Simmons. They each received a plaque and $50 will be directed to the environmental organization of their choice by the association.

-The Ontario Public School Teachers Federation award was presented to Meaghan Obee. Awarded by the member teachers at the school, the award recognizes academic ability, leadership and community spirit among students.

Also honoured Thursday night was Anna Tomlinson who served as the Prime Minister of the students council during the past year. As well, the three student council representatives from the graduating classes were recognized for their contribution. They included Samantha Reagin, Bobbi Griffin and Chris Fitzell.

Following the formal ceremonies the students, staff and families adjourned to the lawn for refreshments and one last goodbye to Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Among the graduates receiving diplomas this year were: Christy Ackerblade, Scott Bacon, Cory Ballod, Brett Beach, Cindy-Jo Bondarenko, Tasha Bradamore, Stacey Bunn, Elizabeth Cameron, Michelle Carpenter, Carla Chubb, Clifton Clarke, Jason Corby, Scott Dedman, Cara Donnery, Beverly-Ann Emmerson, Christopher Fitzell and David Fitzell.

Robin Flood, Michelle Gartshore, Nathaniel Gibbons, Charles Gilbert, Kyla Grexton, Roberta Griffin, Kimberly Harding, Katrina Martin, Tanya Hartwick, Tracy Hartwick, Ryan Hewitt, John Hewson, Jeanne Hirstwood, Angella Howard, Bryan Jackson, Joshua Jarvis, and Colin Klages.

Eric Kormos, John Kovacks, Samuel Little, Haley Lynch, Aimee Mansfield, Donald Mawby, Yvonne Milewski, Carol Mowat, Kevin Murdoch, Melinda Nesbitt, Berniece Noel, Thomas O'Shaughnessy, Meaghan Obee, Edward Packard, Angela Pipe, Caitlin Read and Samantha Reagin.

Todd Redgrave, Robert Reid, Timothy Robinson, Melissa Schaus, Lynn Simmons, Andrew Sisson, Colleen Timbers, Aaron Tomlinson, Anna Tomlinson, Shaun Turner, Scott Walker, William Wallace, Cassandra Weyrich, Andrew Wilbee, Travis Willison, Kristopher Windover and Jennifer Wright.

Cara Donnery was honoured for her diligence as a history student. She accepts the County Town Museum Award from teacher Mrs. Betty Marks.

The members of the Ontario Public School Teachers Federation at Archie Stouffer Elementary School selected Meaghan Obee as the recipient of their award for the all-round best student at the school. Teacher Nick Pawluch made the presentation on behalf of his colleagues.

Busy summer planned at Leslie M. Frost Centre

An exciting variety of programs is planned for the months of July and August at the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre near Dorset. The programs are designed for cottagers, tourists and residents from the Muskoka/Haliburton area.

"As in past years, our programs will be held each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., July 2 to August 29", said Anne Collins, Visitor Services Programmer at the Frost Centre. "However, because of their popularity we have added a Wednesday afternoon program during the peak summer weeks of July 17 to August 7."

The presentations will focus on a range of natural resource and environmental topics. Summer visitors will have an opportunity to learn about "old growth" Muskoka/Haliburton forests, discover how to conserve and protect them." For many of the programs a concurrent childrens program will be offered featuring topics and activities which will inspire and develop a sense of appreciation for nature. "Summer '91" brochures describing the program dates and details are available from the Frost Centre", said Collins "and will be distributed to tourist information centres throughout the area". The Frost Centre, located 11 km south of Dorset, is operated by the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Anyone needing more information may call the Centre at 705-766-2451. There is no fee for participating in the programs.

New direction for associations

A local resident attended a historic precedent setting conference held in Toronto on June 10-12, 1991, at the Toronto Hilton Hotel. Adele Barnes, President of Haliburton County Home Support Services was among the 560 volunteers, consumers and service providers from across Ontario in attendance.

For the first time in Ontario's history, three provincial associations will merge. Meals on Wheels of Ontario, the Ontario Association of Visiting Homemakers Services and the Ontario Home Support Association will set in motion detailed plans to form one organization. The new organization will be called the Ontario Community Support Association.

The Minister of Community and Social Services, Zanana Akande, addressed the conference immediately after she had announced in the Ontario Legislature plans for the redirection of Ontario's long-term care services.

The delegates from the Home Support sector who believe that individuals should be given assistance to be comfortable and safe in their home, warmly welcomed the government's initiatives.

Her remarks indicated that community and neighbourhood-based support programs will be significantly enhanced.

The conference was opened by Elaine Ziemba, Minister of Citizenship.

Bingo players paid tribute to the dedication of Rotarian Cec Rowe and his wife Dorothy on a recent Tuesday night at the Minden Arena. Cec is retiring as chairman of the local service club's bingo. Players Sis Gillis, left, and Margo Sisson, right, presented the couple with a gift from all Bingo supporters.

Kids' Korner

by Jean Lacey

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Q: What are they calling the new T.V. channel which is all about good food?

A: Mmmmm T.V.

Q: What is the cow's favourite T.V. show?

A: Herd of the class.

* * *

Q: Why is the Mississippi River like a Monster from Neptune?

A: They both have four eyes.

* * *

Q: What did the little fruit use to shave with?

A: A raisin blade.

* * *

Q: Why did the potato have a black eye?

A: It got in the way of the fruit punch.

Picnic meeting marks W.I. summer break

On a hot day, June 19, members of Minden Women's Institute met at the home of Gwen Cox. After W.I. Grace was sung and all enjoyed the pot luck buffet, eating out on the deck. There were 14 members present and four guests were made welcome. The usual reports were given and Irene Moore had sent 16 cards for a variety of occasions since the last meeting.

Collections were taken for Card Fund and Pennies For Friendship. Dates of our bake sales are Friday, July 5 and Friday, August 2, at the Gazebo by the bridge after 9:30 a.m.

The President, Jeanne Sears, thanked all who helped with supplies or serving at the Fashion Show and the Drop-In Tea. The new programmes and Home and Country Magazines were given out.

Our District Director, Mary Cox, gave a full report of District Annual held May 14 at Fenelon Falls.

There was mention made of the crafts for our display at Minden Fair. Also some discussion regarding a bus trip and this was left over to September meeting. Audrey Thacher, Victoria East, District President, thanked us for inviting her and Wendy Flett, District Secretary Treasurer. The latter read several amusing items. We then adjourned until next meeting at the Common Room, September 18 at 2 p.m. with all ladies welcome.

Jeanne Sears P.R.O.

Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of May 15.

May 15, 2 mm rain, 4.2

pH, from Lake Huron and Michigan.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic.

Water levels

The stored water in Haliburton area lakes averaged 96.1 per cent of maximum on Monday, June 10, 1991. This exceeded the normal by about 3 per cent, but was in decline. Water for the canal system had not been released by that date, so the decline really was a result of drier than normal conditions and the onset of evaporation.

The dry weather resulted in Otonabee River flows being reduced to near minimum by Thursday, June 13 and a small amount of reservoir water was required by Friday, June 14 to begin offsetting the losses from the Kawartha. Relative humidity values less than 40 per cent some days this week (ending June 15), coupled with high winds have caused considerable drying.

OFFERS FOR SALE

AN EXCELLENT 2 bedroom retirement home. 1 1/2 baths, laundry room on main floor, sun rm., brick fireplace. On 4.3 acres of hardwoods, 500 feet road fr. close to public beach and boat launch on Halls Lake. Make an offer. Owner anxious to sell. Asking $109,000.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIPS OF ANSON, HINDON AND MINDEN

MINDEN WATER SYSTEM

Pursuant to the provisions of By-law No. 90-35 concerning municipal water usage within the Village of Minden:-

1. It shall be lawful to use water for outside purposes within the limits of the north side of the Gull River on Mondays and Thursdays only, between the hours of 7:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. in the evening, and on Saturdays between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. in the evening.

2. It shall be lawful to use water for outside purposes within the limits of the south side of the Gull River on Tuesday and Fridays only, between the hours of 7:00 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. in the evenings, and on Sundays between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. in the evening.

3. For the purposes of this by-law, 'Outside Use' shall be defined as any use of water for outside purposes: Car, animal and surface washing, watering of any vegetation, pool and hot tub consumption and any other water uses except for food and water for human and animal consumption.

For further information, please contact the Municipal Office at 286-1260.

Musical entertainment fills the home

Saturday, June 8 we had a pleasure of listening to Mr. and Mrs. Bradley of Gravenhurst play the guitar and sing. Everyone enjoyed the entertainment greatly. When we could, we joined in. We sincerely thank them and are looking forward to their coming again.

We are very happy to welcome Nicholas Rhodes as a volunteer to take the residents for walks, push their wheelchairs, read aloud or help we elderly people in any way he can. Thank you very much.

Reverend John Burgess held the Sunday evening Chapel Service and Alice Jones played the organ. Thank you both.

Alfie Richardson was happy to have the following visitors on Saturday, June 8: Dianne Morrison, Murray McGuire and his mother Ina McGuire, Neil Bull and his wife, Bonnie Milne and Lillian Harrison. Alfie wishes Lillian a speedy recovery from her operation, as we all do.

Monday we had a treat, when Lorraine Hutchinson led a sing song. She plays the piano and sings beautifully. For some reason we couldn't give her much support, but we sincerely thank her.

In the evening Allan and Ruth Rice showed films. One was "John Muir's High Sierra", and the other was "Golden Fish". Thank you Allan and Ruth, we greatly enjoyed them.

June 11 was Lola Prentice's birthday. It just happened to fall on the day we were having the Archie Stouffer Pen Pals from Mrs. Berry's class here for hamburgers, hot dogs and ice cream. Since Mrs. Berry is Lola's granddaughter, Bonnie, the day was special and Bonnie made a special birthday cake for her grandmother which we all enjoyed for our dessert at supper. Happy years to come, Lola.

We had the auditorium set up for all the residents and each resident pen pal had their school pen pal to sit with them, as this was the first time many pen pals had met. Several resident pen pals received gifts from the children. The residents thank them and are very pleased. The main event of the lunch came when

by Winnifred Barnum

Molly McCarthy was crowned "Queen of the Ghost Writers" and presented with a scroll thanking her for all her work during the school year, writing letters for residents who were unable to write their own. She also received a couple of other small gifts.

Everyone was welcomed by our Administrator, Rheta Jones. Bonnie Berry then guided her pupils through a short program of several different dances which were enjoyable. The event was completed by those residents able to walk, conducting groups of children through Hyland Crest.

The residents thank immensely the following people who also helped make this a happy occasion: Linda Fry and Doris Robertson for planning the event, Llyn Shirley and her staff for the food, nursing staff, housekeeping and laundry staff for helping to seat everyone.

to read for the residents. They are Marian Fisher, Dianna Morris, Rita Reynolds and Nicholas Rhodes, and we thank them all very much.

Thursday we had the weekly tea party provided by the Harcourt Chapel Crossroads and School. A large group came, including a large group of children who entertained us with a varied program of singing, recitations, piano playing, duets opening with O Canada, as should be more often. Mr. Lewis said Grace and we were served a beautiful lunch. Most of the downstairs residents were there. It was an enjoyable tea party. We wish to thank Harcourt Chapel Crossroads and School for the lovely lunch and entertainment.

Thursday evening was Bingo again. Marg Prentice led and she had three helpers with her, a new Kinetite, Kathy Thomas, Nancy and Troy Briggs. It helps to enjoy the game better when there are helpers to assist those who need a little help. Thank you all.

Friday brought Happy Hour again. There were quite a few there. The music was supplied by Everett Fairley, Don White, Charlie Hadley and Doris Robertson. Don and Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemin, and Nicholas Rhodes were the volunteers who looked after the residents and their friends needs. Thank you all, we appreciate your efforts very much.

Wednesday evening Earl Cooper and Kathy Owens were here to sing and play for us in the main lounge. Thanks Earl and Kathy. Have a good trip, Kathy.

In the afternoon we held a special crafts meeting because we had four ladies who came to help quilt and make articles for our sales. We were so happy to have these ladies and will welcome any others who feel like coming.

Friday evening, the Grandfathers Five were here in the main lounge: Bill Payne, Eldon Deacon, Charlie Hadley, Don Burch and George Smith. It helps pass an evening pleasantly and we thank them sincerely.

On June 13 Dora Dawson had Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edwards of Scarborough to visit her and June 14 Pat and Doreen Grey from Toronto came to see her.

Senior drivers' update

The Canada Safety Council with the help of dedicated volunteers is presenting a refresher course for mature drivers June 26-27 at the PineStone Inn, starting at 9 a.m.

The 55 ALIVE mature driver refresher course is designed to update driving knowledge and sharpen driving ability to compensate for normal age related changes in physical condition.

Why age 55? Medical research shows that most physical changes negatively affecting driving ability begin, on average, about age 55 and tend to accelerate beyond that age, often without the older driver being fully aware of such changes. By taking a re-education course at age 55, the chances are good that a collision can be prevented before the driver becomes one of the statistics in the over 60 age group.

For just $10 (including lunch), this course is an excellent way of improving your driving abilities with a minimal outlay of time and effort.

To register contact Carl Wallace 754-2648, Victor Ross 754-2544 or Edna Sedgwick at 286-2672.

CARD OF THANKS

Re.: Retirement. To the Minden Firemen - a great big thank you from Les and Lorna Hogg for the surprise drop-in at my house on Tuesday night. I would like to thank The Boys for the plaque and the clock with inscription, also for the plant donated to Lorna for her time spent on answering the phone. A special thank you to our old Bud, Danny, for organization and holiday to Coby.

Les and Lorna Hogg

I wish to thank J.O. Jackson for taking me to the hospital in Peterborough. Also my sister for helping out at home, for the many phone calls, cards and goodies that I received. I thank you all.

Emma Hewitt

We would like to thank everyone who attended our wedding and reception. A special thanks to Miles and Sandra Roberts, Paul and Kim Wilson for babysitting and Wayne Rivers, Ted Duncan and Julie Hartin for videos and pictures. Thanks so much.

Blair and Michelle Cooper

To all who made my special day a very special occasion. Thanks.

Dwight.

AT REST

GILLESPIE - Margaret A. (Peggy) (nee Bonis) - at Scarborough Centenary Hospital on Monday, June 17, 1991. Beloved wife of Art. Dear mother to Deborah, Kathryn and her husband Desmond Sue-Chan; Stephen and Michael, daughter of the late Reverend Robert & Winnifred Bonis, loving sister to David and his wife Norma, Peter and his wife Doreen, Ruth Spink, and Sylvia. Loving niece of Margaret Bonis and Muriel Evans. Friends may call at the Martino Chapel of the Giffen-Mack Funeral Home, 4115 Lawrence Avenue East on Wednesday from 7 - 9 p.m. and Thursday 2 - 4 p.m. and 7 - 9 p.m. Funeral service in St. Timothy's Anglican Church, Agincourt (4125 Sheppard Avenue East just west of Midland) on Friday at 11 a.m. Cremation. In lieu of flowers a donation to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Minden would be appreciated by the family. An Eastern Star service will be held Thursday evening, West Hill Chapter 301.

IN MEMORIAM

GARTSHORE: In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Loran, who passed away June 24th, 1983.

There will always be a heart-ache
And often a silent tear.
But always precious memories
Of the days when you were here.
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain
To walk with us through all our lives
Until we meet again.

Sadly missed and remembered by Mildred and family.

PROCENKO: Michael - Lost to us June 23, 1978.

Always a silent heartache and many a silent tear
But always a beautiful memory of a son we loved so dear.
His memory is our keepsake
With which we will never part
Though God has him in His keeping
We still have him in our hearts.

Lovingly remembered and missed by Mom, Dad and Lisa.

IN MEMORIAM

PROCENKO - In loving memory of our friend, Michael, taken June 23, 1978.

Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind.
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.

The Beers Family.
